The Pulpit

A SERMON BY THE REV. DR. W. HENDERSON

Subject: The Gospel of Christ.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—Preaching at the Irving Square Presbyterian Church, on the theme "The Gospel of Christ, a Partial Message to Its Messengers," the Rev. Ira Wemmell Henderson, pastor, took as his text Romans 1:16, "For I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ." He said:

The last and perhaps the greatest privilege which our Savior has given unto us is contained in that command which, it is reported, He gave to His disciples nineteen centuries ago: "Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature."

Paul writing, as we have seen, to the Church at Rome, but a few years after the death of the Master, has given to us a record of his personal and profound conviction of the worthiness of the good news of the Christ.

This, the opinion of the pre-eminent evangelist of the Apostolic Church, still stands unchanged. Through all the schisms of the centuries the Gospel has come down to us as pure and beautiful in its message; as strong and as potent in its power for good, as it was when first our Master preached, with His own dear lips, the message of salvation and abounding love.

To-day, as we stand just within the threshold of another century, with the memories of mighty eras lingering in our hearts, let us glance over the achievements of the century of the living God. Let us, as we stand at the parting of the ways, when to go forward is to accept new responsibilities and to receive new and newed opportunities for service, look critically at the field before us. Let us determine what course, as Christians, we must pursue. Let us consider the message of the church to the men of to-day. Let us decide, as God may give us power, our duty as the messengers of the risen Lamb of God of whose gospel we are not ashamed.

About the year of our Lord the thirty-second a certain Pharisee, Saul by name, journeyed from Jerusalem to Damascus, "breathing out threatenings and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord." His intent was to bring bound to Jerusalem all Christians whom he might find at Damascus. While on his way, and when but a few hours distant from Damascus the spirit of God came upon Saul and a marvelous conversion, worthy of the mission and of the magnificence of the man, took place. Saul's question, "Lord, what will Thou have me to do?" was the mainspring of action in his life. In the answer of our Lord came a prophecy of that work of evangelization which was destined to change the political aspect of the world, and to do much to ameliorate the social conditions of the surroundings of humankind.

Paul was the first world-evangelist. His mission was to sow the seed in all the first century world. And so in the outpouring of a grateful heart for a powerful foe made success as a spiritual seedsman—Paul declares, "I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ."

This same gospel it is which claimed the allegiance of Paul and which holds the fealty of men in every clime to-day, which has raised men the principles of right living and of eternal truth. To the influence of the gospel is due that esteem for woman which has raised her from a chattel to her rightful position as a forceful factor in society. And the gospel is largely due that beneficent scheme of education and that grander conception of the liberty of the individual.

The words of Christ foretold the doom of slavery. The eternal principle of the sacredness of personality is not but be hostile to a system of human chattelism.

The gentle teachings of the man of peace have entered into home in every epoch and in every land, strengthening and molding the life of individual character and life. Wherever the example of the Christ is followed there is prosperity and peace and purity of heart. Widely spread throughout a people it has made of that nation a mighty and a moving element in the political history of the world. Applied to the lives of men and women in whose hearts the love of God's law was uppermost it has given to us our Luthers, our Wesleys, our Lincolns, our noblest and our best.

But it is within the space of the past century and a half that the true mission of the gospel has been comprehended and advanced. Little more than a century is it since our first plans were considered to send Protestant missionaries to the East. To-day we have the missionary of Christ in every land. The messengers of salvation through the Son is reaching round the world.

But let us for the moment forget the things which are behind and look rather upon the present conditions of humanity. Let us consider our duty as those who are "not ashamed of the gospel of Christ," to carry that gospel into every acting, longing soul. What application has the gospel to the needs of to-day? How can we make it a force in the lives of men and of nations.

We find ourselves confronted by diverse and distracting social conditions. The tendency of the times is toward congregation in large cities. The olden country life becomes distasteful, and men in the rann to gain a livelihood flock to the cities. Let us take as an example the City of New York. Here are some of the richest of the rich, the poorest of the poor; palaces, hovels; luxury and extravagance, penury and destitution; costly cathedrals erected to the glory of the living God, and beneath their very steeples disreputable dives dedicated to all that is brutal in man. Commercialism is the watchword. The city, as the land, is money mad. The spirit of combination is abroad, and we see huge gatherings of untold capital to control the industries of the world. Capital fears labor and combines against it. Labor unions for the concentration of wealth and attempts, with but moderate success, to protect itself from its fancied enemy. The immensely rich live their lives with but small care for or thought of the wretched existence of the toilers in the tenement slums. Vice shows it evil head at every turn. There is in New York a single square, within the bounds of which reside over 2000 human beings, who live under the most disheartening conditions. To our shores have come multitudes from every European nation, from nearly all the countries of the world. We have our "little Italy," our German colony, our French quarter, our Chinatown. Upon the same page of a daily newspaper we may read heart burning accounts of the unutterable misery of multitudes of our poor, and the story of how one man is attempting to control the supply of the diamonds, or the gold, or the steel, or the rubber, or the railroads of the earth.

Thus, in brief, are described some of the conditions that make the social problem so discouraging. Let us consider now our duty as men and women who love our Lord to carry His gospel of light and of life to a world that is so sorely in need of it.

The prime duty of the church, here as elsewhere, is to instil into the hearts and minds of men the necessity and the joy of the presence of the saving power of the Holy Spirit in the individual life. That's the spiritual function of the church. Let ethical duty of the church is to impress upon mankind the true relation of man to man and to God.

In order to impart the fullest influence it is necessary that the church be filled individually and collectively, with the deepest grace and the noblest love for man. By the exercise of the true principles of the Christ life the life commonplaces of life, the charge of a congregation, the training of the Sunday school, the care of the sick and the needy, the individuals the church must be a brotherhood of men actuated by its own ideals, is worthy. To the church do the people look for the purest, the most unselfish leadership. Only in the degree that the life within the church is in sure indication of the height of the morality of the people is demonstrated by the ages past. Upon us as Christian men devolves the privilege to attain unto that perfectness which was in the universe before sin came to mar it, may become the law of our national and international life. Only then can we since the poor of their duty to the rich; we must convince the rich of their duty to the poor. Then shall have come to pass the kingdom of God and the will of God be done on earth as it is done in heaven.

But how is a mighty army in which the different regiments ignored each their duty and their position under a common generalship, so may we succeed in waging the peaceful battles of the moral war march, side by side, and shoulder to shoulder, in full panoply and with solid front, forward to the victory under the command generalship of the King of Kings, who is Christ the Lord.

And now a word upon the manner of the preaching of the gospel.

The gospel should be preached attractively. Many of our Sunday-schools and Salvation Army rooms may suit the requirements of that class to whom spiritual natures the workers may wish to appeal. Wonderful is their influence and to them be all honor. The average self-supporting poor spiritual sustenance. He feels, and feels too easily with some justification, that the mission—the very name of which is distasteful to him—has been established so that he may have no excuse to intrude his unwelcome presence upon the mother church. May God speed the day when the church will see her duty in this matter. The poor, whose only sin is poverty, whose piety is often more genuine than that nurtured in a luxurious home, should be given substantial opportunity to worship. Such Sunday revivals prove that the common people respond eagerly and in force to the preaching of the man to whom they can see and imagine only love. The common people heard Christ gladly when the learned scorned Him.

We often speak of the wilfulness of those who listen to our preaching upon the duty of every man to accept Christ as the personal Saviour, and who do not heed our words. Generally we console ourselves with the thought that we have done our duty at any rate. Perhaps we have. But are we justified to say that Christ has been rejected. May it not be that the rejection has been, not so much of Christ as of our presentation of Him. Might it not be that another man with a different personality, with a different manner of expression, with a something in his nature that would bring him heart to heart with his listener, would convince this sinner, over whom we have tried and failed, of his absolute dependence upon the God who gave him life. The whole power of the body of Christ must be exerted to save men. Too often men are unconvinced because of our non-appealing presentation of the truths of the Bible story. Unto all people must the church of the twentieth century address herself. To all men must the gospel be preached.

But this gospel of the Christ is not merely a system of ethics or merely a scheme of life. It is more. St. Paul tells us that he is "not ashamed of the gospel of Christ, for," says he, "it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth." Through it we know not only what God expects of us, but we have a knowledge of the nature of our heavenly Father. Christ came to preach the kingdom. The outworking in practical life of the principles of the kingdom will make such conditions as we have discussed impossible.

With the entrance of Christ into the heart man will become right toward God. Being in harmony with God he will be in harmony with his brethren. Let us apply ourselves then, steadfastly to spread the gospel of Christ.

The gospel of our Lord and Savior needs in its urgency no immediate need of this world. Within its pages is contained the solution of all our most perplexing social problems. Let us bring our weary brethren back from the distant country into the father's house and devote the fatted calf to attain unto that perfectness which was in Christ. Brotherhood in the hearts of men and the law of love, which is God is and then another, and kept using 3 of three months.

"At the end of that time my health was restored, my nerves no longer troubled me, and I felt myself once more clad able to assume my social position. I certainly feel that Peruna is a deserving remedy."

There are many reasons why society women break down, why their nervous systems fail, why they have systemic irregularities. Indeed, it is a wonder they are able to these ailments. No wonder they praise the virtues of Peruna. It is their shield and safeguard.

Piedmont-Bedford Concentrated Iron and Alum Water.

Contains such a remarkable combination of natural minerals that it has made a reputation for itself by curing Chronic Diseases after many other treatments had failed.

Its equal cannot be found in the treatment of Indigestion, Rheumatism, Catarrh, Kidney and Bladder Troubles, Female Complaints, Malaria, Nervousness, Stomach and Bowel Disorders, Piles, Inactive Liver, Scrofula, and other Blood and Skin Diseases.

We do not claim that one bottle of this Water will cure a disease of long standing, as this would be impossible, but we have such confidence in what will be the result if used a reasonable length of time, that we sell it with a guarantee.

This Water is simply a natural concentrated tonic for Chronic Diseases, and is by no means a patent medicine. By its use you can be cured in your own home at the cost of 2c. per day even better than if you lost several months time and spent several hundred dollars in going to the Springs. It is not necessary for us to go to California to get testimonials. We have them from people you know and want you to read every one given below.

TESTIMONIALS.

My wife suffered for twenty years with falling of an ulcerated womb, and was bed-ridden for five years; was treated by different physicians with only temporary benefit. Twelve months' use of P.-B. Concentrated Iron and Alum Water made a perfect cure. She gained thirty pounds in flesh. I regard it as the most valuable remedy known for female and other troubles.

Gus. J. Burford,
Naiola, Va.

About 22 years ago I contracted blood poison, and it clung to me through all those years, until I used P.-B. Concentrated Iron and Alum Water. I am now in perfect health, and have gained 35 pounds in weight. I also used Peruna and Manalin Pills, and obtained no permanent relief until I used this remedy. I must be permanently cured now, as I have had need to use the water for the past two years.

Robert Nunnally,
Amherst, Va.

I have lived in the neighborhood of the P.-B. Iron and Alum Springs for a number of years, and can testify to the merits of the water as a tonic, and a sure cure for Scrofula Iron, for the benefit of others I have also heard it highly recommended for female troubles, and my father used it for throat trouble, and great benefit.

Mrs. Sallie J. Nance,
East Radford, Va.

I am glad to inform you that the Concentrated Water put up by your Company has been of great value to my daughter. She was in a very weak and nervous condition before using the water, and two bottles made her almost a new woman. I am satisfied that it is a valuable remedy and should be met with a large sale.

Joel H. Cutchin, Mayor,
Roanoke, Va.

I suffered from indigestion to such an extent that it was for weeks that I could not eat anything but the lightest of diet; could not even eat bread. Dr. Coke prescribed your Concentrated Iron and Alum Water, which I have used for several months, and the results are that I can eat almost anything, and my indigestion is cured.

Mrs. J. F. Hinton,
621 Oxford St., Danville, Va.

My son, who was suffering with indigestion to such an extent that he had no appetite, and his skin was muddy, used one 15-oz. bottle of your Concentrated Water. It gives me pleasure to state that it had the effect to clear up his skin, give him a good appetite and cure his indigestion. I consider it a most valuable water.

Harry Wooding, Mayor,
Danville, Va.

After using an 18-oz. bottle of your P.-B. Concentrated Iron and Alum Water, I feel that I cannot speak too highly in praise of it. After using it a few days. I could notice a change in my appetite, and while my general health has been uniformly good, I have noticed considerably from intermittent attacks of Rheumatism, especially in the fall and winter seasons, but have not had a pain since using your preparation, and confidently pronounce the recurrence of the disease. It is my opinion not only a good tonic, but a sure blood purifier as well.

John T. Loving, Mayor,
Pulaski, Va.

For more than five years I have been troubled with Chronic Dyspepsia and Indigestion, and tried almost all the remedies I could hear of, but one bottle of this valuable Water and actually believe that I am perfectly restored to health. I can accomplish everything it is recommended for.

The teacher was trying to get his big stick and started out of the White House.

"Whither?" cried Loeb, trembling for the safety of his meat.

"I'm going walking," condescended the President.

"Whither?" Loeb repeated.

"Whither?" snapped the President. "Whither? Can't you say anything?"

The President paused.

Then he murmured, "true. I have walked over everything in sight and while near."

Sighing, as did that other Great, he strode on, thumping the floor impatiently with his stick.—New York Sun.

BACKACHE AND DESPONDENCY

Are both symptoms of organic derangement, and nature's warning to women of a trouble which if neglected may soon declare itself.

How often do we hear women say, "I seem as though my back would break," "I get very nervous and dizzy at times," "I feel as though I must go home and suffer with aches in the small of the back, pain low down in the side, dragging sensations, nervousness and no ambition."

They do not realize that the back-aching feeling of woman's organism and quickly indicates by aching a diseased condition of the feminine organs or kidneys, and that aches and pains will continue to follow.

MISS LENA NAGEL

made from native roots and herbs has been for many years the most successful remedy in such cases. No other medicine has such a record of cures of feminine ills.

Miss Lena Nagel, of 117 Morgan St., Buffalo, N. Y., writes:—"I was troubled with female weakness, and was constantly taking medicine all the time. I had dreadful periods of pain, was subject to fits of crying and extreme nervousness, and was always weak and tired. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me."

Such as Backache, Falling and Displacements, and all Organic Diseases. Dissolves and expels Tumors at an early stage. It strengthens and tones the whole feminine system. Corrects Headache and Indigestion and invigorates the whole system.

Successful Authors.

Marie Corelli has never had a line rejected. Her first book, "A Romance of Two Worlds," was a great success, and all her other books have been great successes.

H. G. Wells is a stranger to the rejection slip. He began by writing "Boo-like" tales that found a ready sale among the magazines, and his first novel, "The Time Machine," gave him instant repute.

Mrs. Frances Hodgson Burnett wrote her first story at the age of 15. It was accepted and she received for it a check for $17.

Upton Sinclair supported himself at college by writing "dime novels."

For seven years the young man ground out tales of blood and terror, dictating sometimes 5,000 words a day. At the age of 18 he could write a "dime novel" in a week that would find a ready sale at from $75 to $100.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward's first serious work was "Robert Elsmere," a book so remarkable that publishers offered her $62,000 to write a novel for him.

Charles Dana Gibson's first published drawing made his reputation, and before he was 21 he was earning $400 a month.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Why He Sought The Mourners' Bench.

"Once we had a revival, and I attended it as a young girl. She got quite excited, and before I knew what was happening she started for the mourners' bench. She didn't ask me if I'd go. She just got up and went off by herself.

"Well, she kneeled down there, and I see that my brother-in-law was kneelin' a feller she'd been goin' with some and was a rival o' mine. I said, 'by gosh! I can't stand back and let that there ketchin' her.' There was just a little room between her and him, and I stepped right in there and separate 'em.

"I cut him out that time, and he didn't marry that girl. As far as that goes, neither did I. Oh, well, you can't be young but once!"—Outing Magazine.

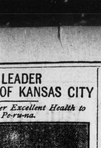
A TERRIBLE EXPERIENCE.

How a Veteran Was Saved the Amputation of a Limb.



B. Frank Doremus, veteran, of Roosevelt Ave., Indianapolis, Ind., says: "I had been showing symptoms of kidney trouble from the time I was mustered out of the army, and in all my life I never suffered as in 1897. Headaches, dizziness and sleeplessness, first, and then dropsy. I was weak and helpless, having run down from 180 to 125 pounds. I was having terrible pain in the kidneys, and the secretions passed almost involuntarily. My left leg swelled until it was 34 inches around, and the doctor tapped it night and morning until I could no longer stand it, and then he advised amputation. I refused, and began using Doan's Kidney Pills. The swelling subsided gradually, the urine became natural and all my pains and aches disappeared. I have been well now for nine years since using Doan's Kidney Pills."

"My little son, when about a year and a half old, began to have sore come out on his face. They began to come on his arms, then on other parts of his body, and then on the scalp, and more than the others. Still he grew worse. At the end of about a year and a half of suffering he grew so bad I had to tie his hands in bags to keep him from scratching the sores and tearing the flesh. He got to be a mere skeleton and was hardly able to walk. I went to the drug store and got a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment, and at the end of about two months the sores were all well. He is never had any sore of any kind since, and I can sincerely say that only for the Cuticura Remedies my child would have died from those terrible sores." (Signed) Mrs. Ida Hall, Aug. 29, 1906.

I used one cake of Soap and about three boxes of Ointment. Mrs. Egbert Sheldon, R. F. D. No. 1, Woodville, Conn., April 29, 1907.

COMMERCIAL COLUMN

Weekly Review of Trade and Latest Market Reports.

New York.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says:

Trade records to seasonable weather, distribution of spring merchandise fully equaling sanguine expectations, and country merchants purchase liberally from wholesalers at ending centers. Reports from principal cities are uniformly favorable, active business being accompanied by further improvements in collections. Leading industries are fully occupied, and no strikes of more than local significance have materialized thus far. Manufacturers are busy on goods for early shipment, and ample business for later season promises continued activity. Improved traffic conditions make deliveries more prompt.

Primary markets for textiles are more quiet, but there is no diminution in the output of mills except where labor cannot be secured. Most cotton goods producers have orders covering output so far into the future that the lightened pressure is helpful. Jobbers are still selling goods purchased below the present level, and the future of the market cannot be determined until unfilled orders are placed at the highest prices. The attitude of customers as new valuations is the uncertain element, any evidence that stocks are being worn thin will have a hastening effect upon consumption. Failures for the week have been 238, against 212 last year, and 29 in 1906, against 24 in 1905.

Commodity exchanges have resumed normal operations, prices show some recovery from the unsettled position after the Easter holiday, which was observed abroad.

Good Looking Young Cherokees.

"If you go down into the Cherokee Nation you will see thousands and thousands of good looking and useful young women who are the offspring of white fathers with the prominent characteristics of the Chellan, of the Cherokee Nation. "In most cases no one would think of or than of the Anglo-Saxon race. The fair and lily white skin, the refined as their sisters of unlimited blood and just as stylish in their dress. The boys are as bright and manly a set of young fellows as can be found. There is nothing about them to differentiate them from the white race.

"Another thing is that these mixed bloods are more intelligent than the pure Indian stock, hardier and less likely to fall a prey to that disease which carries off so many of the fullbloods, consumption."—Washington Herald.

One of the Important Duties of Physicians and the Well-Informed of the World is to learn as to the relative standing and reliability of the leading manufacturers of medicinal agents, as the most eminent physicians are the most careful as to the uniform quality and perfect purity of remedies prescribed by them, and it is well known to physicians and the Well-Informed generally that the California Fig Syrup Co., by reason of its correct methods and perfect equipment and the ethical character of its product has attained to the high standing in scientific and commercial circles which is accorded to successful and reliable houses only, and, therefore, that the name of the Company has become a guarantee of the excellence of
